

Care & Community Settings

We deliver outreach with many groups of people out in our community. We work with those who might struggle to visit us at the museum or who come together in a regular and familiar setting to socialise, learn and support each other.

We work with residential care settings as well as groups such as residents' associations, memory groups, groups of people with hearing loss and head injuries, women's institutes and lunch clubs.

We regularly offer a range of object handling and reminiscence sessions as part of our outreach programme. Our sessions include:

- Object Handling: Roman, Saxon and Stone Age
- Reminiscence: Home & Home Life, Work and Childhood
- Look Again: A presentation about the museum's costume collection and its recent revisioning
- Banners: A creative workshop for families or grandparents and grandchildren inspired by the suffrage movement in Salisbury
- Mini Meaning of Things: A single session version of the larger project, exploring what museums do by asking 'What do we keep?' and 'Why do we keep things?'

We are also currently developing Reminiscence Boxes on the themes of Creative Wiltshire, Holidays & Leisure and Community Celebration which we will be ready to use with groups in the near future.

We adapt our sessions to your setting so the more you can tell us about the needs of your group, the more we can tailor the experience for those taking part.

COVID-19

Due to the current social distancing guidance and shielding measures, we understand that many groups may not currently be meeting and care and community settings may not wish to have visits from external facilitators for safety reasons.

However, we have created a range of reminiscence resource videos, made with care settings and people caring at home in mind, to support people, as best we can, at this time.

We are also able to offer some sessions by Zoom video conferencing in partnership with organisations that are already supporting a group remotely or supported by care staff.
